

08.01.2018

DEA's CEO on Norwegian top tech list

Abelia, the association of Norwegian knowledge and technology based enterprises, has published a list of established and outstanding female leaders in tech companies. Among the fifteen on the list is Maria Moræus Hansen, new CEO in DEA Deutsche Erdoel AG.

"We are very proud that Maria is considered to be among the leading female tech personalities in Norway", says Kjetil Hjertvik, Communications Manager at DEA Norway.

"Technological knowledge is increasingly important for all employees in DEA and in the sector as a whole. As other businesses, we have to adapt to and exploit the speedy technological development in general and digitalization in particular to improve our value creation", says Hjertvik.

Abelia has published the list in relation to this years election of the 50 leading female tech personalities in Norway. This annual event is a joint operation between Abelia and Oda Network, the leading meeting place for women working in IT or in the IT industry in the Nordics.

Read more and nominate candidates (in Norwegian) here.

DEA's CEO Maria Moræus Hanssen