

DEA Selects Cognite as Partner for Digital Transformation

DEA Deutsche Erdoel AG has selected Oslo based Cognite AS to accelerate DEA 's digital transformation. The project will start with deployment of the Cognite Data Platform on DEA's own-operated Mittelplate asset in Germany.

"The strategic partnership will accelerate our digitalization efforts. We need to explore, develop and produce at lower costs, increase efficiency, and make less impact on the climate and the environment. We firmly believe that unlocking the value of data is key in supporting those goals", says Maria Moræus Hanssen, CEO at DEA Deutsche Erdoel AG.

Cognite's technology will allow both those who plan operations and those who work in the field to monitor live data from critical machinery and processes in a quick, insightful way.

As operational safety continues to be the main priority for DEA, the partnership will also focus on applying ML to improve HSE efforts.

By opting to partner with Cognite, DEA proudly joins the Data Liberation Front, and hopes to inspire other key oil and gas players to join. Data liberation is about breaking-down silos, a crucial first step toward a more open, innovative and collaborative industry, where data sharing is the norm rather than the exception.
